

Corporate Parenting Panel

Positioning statement

Any child who comes into the care of the County Council until the child leaves care is the statutory responsibility of the County Council. Members of the County Council and staff members are Corporate Parents, and have a duty to ensure that during the child's time in care the voice and experience of the child is paramount. It is key that the child receives a consistently good experience and that the child's health and education needs are met allowing all children looked after the same life chances as any other child.

The Corporate Parenting Panel must work to national principles, including those provided by the Department for Education and as set out in the Appendix.

Constitution

A multi-agency advisory panel to the County Council and to the Cabinet Member for Children and Young People comprising six members of the County Council (appointed from among those best qualified to serve but including at least one minority group member and one from either the foster or adoption panel), as well as the multi-agency partners in West Sussex who are responsible for delivering good and effective corporate parenting for children and young people. This includes the Designated Nurse (NHS), a representative of Independent Reviewing Officers, a Foster Carer, Chairman or Vice-Chairman of the West Sussex Foster Carer Association, a member of the Children in Care Council and a Care Leaver.

At least two County Council members of the Panel will also be members of the Children and Young People's Services Select Committee. The quorum is three. The Chairman of the Panel will be the relevant Senior Advisor to the Cabinet Member for Children and Young People.

Purpose

The Corporate Parenting Panel aims to ensure that the County Council, alongside other agencies, undertakes its duties as Corporate Parents for all children looked after and care leavers for which it is responsible so that young people can achieve their full potential and a successful transition into adulthood. The Panel does this by ensuring that the voice and experience of the child/young person is central to all its work and that the services provided for children and young people looked after by the County Council are of good quality, consistent and meet their needs. It works with all elected members and officers within the Council, with colleagues from partner agencies and with children and young people who are looked after. The Panel's ambitions assist in the Council's overarching vision that "Children and Young People in West Sussex get the best start in life".

Appendix

A strong ethos of corporate parenting means that sense of vision and responsibility towards the children they look after and their care leavers is a priority for everyone. They recognise that children looked after have the same needs – to be loved, cared for and feel safe – as other children. But also that there are unique challenges that children looked after and care leavers face: 60% of children become looked after due to abuse or neglect and they have poorer educational and health outcomes than their peers. A strong corporate parenting ethos recognises that the care system is not just about keeping children safe, but also to promote recovery, resilience and wellbeing.

The Children and Social Work Act 2017 introduces corporate parenting principles, which comprise of seven needs that local authorities in England must have regard to whenever they exercise a function in relation to children looked after or care leavers (collectively referred to as children looked after and young people). The corporate parenting principles are intended to secure a better approach to fulfilling existing functions in relation to children looked after and care leavers and for the local authority to facilitate as far as possible secure, nurturing, and positive experiences for children looked after and young people and enable positive outcomes for them.

The corporate parenting principles are about embedding a positive culture in the local authority towards children looked after and care leavers and their success will depend on the extent to which directors, councillors, heads of service and front line managers champion and promote understanding of them. The experiences of children looked after and care leavers, particularly in regards to whether they feel cared for and listened to, will therefore be an important measure of how successfully local authorities embed the principles.

The principles

In order to thrive, children and young people have certain key needs that good parents generally meet. The corporate parenting principles set out seven principles that local authorities must have regard to when exercising their functions in relation to children looked after and young people, as follows:

- To act in the best interests, and promote the physical and mental health and well-being, of those children and young people;
- To encourage those children and young people to express their views, wishes and feelings;
- To take into account the views, wishes and feelings of those children and young people;
- To help those children and young people gain access to, and make the best use of, services provided by the local authority and its relevant partners;
- To promote high aspirations, and seek to secure the best outcomes, for those children and young people;
- For those children and young people to be safe, and for stability in their home lives, relationships and education or work; and
- To prepare those children and young people for adulthood and independent living.

The corporate parenting principles are not about applying a formulaic approach to how services are delivered in relation to children looked after and care leavers. Rather they describe the behaviours and attitudes expected of councils when they are acting as any good parent would do by supporting, encouraging and guiding their children to lead healthy, rounded and fulfilled lives. The principles intend to ensure that all councils have high ambitions for the children in their care. In doing so, the application of the principles must respond to the individual needs, vulnerabilities or disadvantages of children looked after and care leavers. This will assist in securing that such children and young people are not placed at significant disadvantage when compared with the support a non-looked after child or young person may receive from their family.
