West Sussex Agreed Syllabus Conference

Report by the Director of Education and Skills

Summary

To update the Agreed Syllabus Conference on the progress made developing an Agreed Syllabus for Religious Education 2020-25 for West Sussex Schools and plans to launch it.

Recommendation

The Agreed Syllabus Conference is asked to review and approve the Agreed Syllabus for Religious Education 2020-25 and the adoption of this for schools in West Sussex for implementation in January 2021.

Details

1. Background and Context

- 1.1 An Agreed Syllabus is a document that details the statutory requirement for all schools within a Local Authority (LA) which requires that Religious Education (RE) must be provided for all pupils as set out in the Education Act 1988 and confirmed by the Education Acts of 1996.
- 1.2 Each LA must have a Standing Advisory Council on Religious Education that comprises representatives from faith groups, teachers and LA advisers. The LA also has a requirement to convene an Agreed Syllabus Conference to reconsider the Agreed Syllabus every five years.
- 1.3 The Agreed Syllabus must reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian, it should also reflect other principal religions and worldviews and their religious traditions, practices and teachings.
- 1.4 The Agreed Syllabus sets out advice on what pupils should be taught and expected standards and outcomes at the end of each key stage.
- 1.5 School leaders are required to ensure the provision of RE and that sufficient time and resources are given to meet the statutory requirements.
- 1.6 This syllabus enables pupils to study beliefs, teachings and ways of living to allow them to examine and reflect upon their own ideas and values. This is particularly important in the world we currently live where we need to promote cultural diversity and worldviews.

1.7 This new syllabus outlines:

- The legal requirements for RE, including the recommendation of 5% curriculum time
- Aims of the Agreed Syllabus
- Guidance about the religions to be studied
- Outlines the breadth of study
- Syllabus content, introduction of themes
- Review of the assessment criteria
- RE in special schools, update on assessing of pupils with special educational needs and disabilities in light of the removal of the "P" scale (a set of descriptions used to record and assess the progress of children between the ages of 5-14 who have special educational needs) with the introduction of the "Engagement Model" (an assessment tool that helps schools meet their duties in supporting pupils who are working below the level of the national curriculum and who are not engaged in subject-specific study)
- Appendices of suggested resources which have been reviewed and amended
- Themes now reflect religions and worldviews

2. Next Steps

- 2.1 Once approved, the syllabus will be designed so the content will be enhanced to optimise interest in schools.
- 2.2 A remote launch is being planned for January 2021, followed by training programme and network groups for schools.
- 2.3 Communication and engagement with schools will be aligned to engagement events led by the School Effectiveness Team.

Foreword

We are pleased to welcome you to the new Agreed Syllabus for Religious Education 2020 that has been adopted by West Sussex County Council as the Local Education Authority. It is the outcome of a five-yearly statutory review process.

As Chairman of the West Sussex SACRE I would like to give particular thanks to Karen Hammond, the external Religious Education Consultant who spent a huge amount of time putting the document together and making the changes required to bring it up to date. I would also like to thank Freja Bhreathnach (Teacher and Religious Education Co-ordinator, Stanford Infant School), Grace Waker (Head of Religious Education, Steyning Grammar School), and Rosemary Black (Christian Distinctiveness, SIAMS and Religious Education Manager, Diocese of Chichester), who have been prepared to give their time and to share their expertise and good practice in drafting the review of the West Sussex Agreed Syllabus. We also thank the teachers who have also contributed their knowledge and practice in teaching Religious Education.

We believe this Agreed Syllabus will not only help teachers as they deliver good quality Religious Education in our schools in the enhancement of the spiritual, moral, social and cultural development of pupils. This revision of the Agreed Syllabus also introduces to children the themes of study of Humanist and other worldview values and beliefs. The Agreed Syllabus enables teachers, faith communities and others engaged in the education of our young people to identify and access these values and to gain insights into the human condition and what it is like to live in contemporary society. The Review of Religious Education in England by the Religious Education Council of England and Wales points out that Religious Education teaching "should equip pupils with systematic knowledge and understanding of a range of religions and worldviews, enabling them to develop their ideas, values and identities. It should develop in pupils an aptitude for dialogue so that they can participate positively in our society with its diverse religions and worldviews." We believe that this new, revised Agreed Syllabus fulfils this requirement.

Chairman, West Sussex SACRE

Part 1 Religious Education in the Curriculum

Background

The West Sussex Education Authority's Agreed Syllabus for religious education (RE) of 2015 was subject to review in 2020 as is required by Law. The new Local Agreed Syllabus of 2020 builds upon the excellent work taking place across the Authority and also reflects the changing religious landscape in the United Kingdom and the diversity of modern-day society. The syllabus is based upon enquiry-based learning and aims to raise expectations of both teachers and pupils in terms of the scholarly study of religions and worldviews. The Local Agreed Syllabus must reflect the fact "that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian, while taking into account the teaching and practices of the other principal religions represented in Great Britain" (1996 Act).

Within school the RE curriculum should be designed to support the whole school ethos and curriculum. The syllabus is designed to support school leaders by clearly stating the intent, appropriate implementation and potential impact of RE on the lives of children and young people so that they can flourish in a changing world.

Why Religion and worldviews? The nature of RE has changed over the past thirty years. Since the Education Reform Act of 1988 the local, national and global religious landscape and academic understandings of the subject have changed significantly. According to the recent survey British School Attitudes (2017) over 50% of adults identify as not belonging to a religion, with 41% identifying as Christian. This explains a fundamental need for our syllabus to reflect the changes in modern day society and the need to help pupils understand the different ways in which religion and worldviews can be understood, interpreted and studied.

The importance of Religious Education

Religious education provokes challenging questions about the ultimate meaning and purpose of life, beliefs about God, the self and the nature of reality, issues of right and wrong and what it means to be human. It develops pupils' knowledge and understanding of Christianity, other religions and worldviews that offer answers to questions such as these. It provides opportunities for personal reflection and spiritual development. It enhances pupils' awareness and understanding of religions and beliefs, teachings, practices and forms of expression, as well as of the influence of religion on individuals, families, communities and cultures.

Religious education encourages pupils to learn from different religions, beliefs, values and traditions while exploring their own beliefs and questions of meaning. It challenges pupils to reflect on, consider, analyse, interpret and evaluate issues of truth, belief, faith and ethics and to communicate their responses.

Religious education encourages pupils to develop their sense of identity and belonging. It enables them to flourish individually within their communities, as citizens in a pluralistic society and global community. Religious education has an important role in preparing pupils for adult life, employment and lifelong learning. It enables pupils to develop respect for and sensitivity to others, in particular those whose faiths and beliefs are different from their own. It promotes discernment and enables pupils to combat prejudice.

It is essential that religious education enables pupils to share their own beliefs, viewpoints and ideas without embarrassment, prejudice or ridicule. Many pupils come from religious backgrounds, but it is recognized that others have no attachment to religious beliefs and practices. To ensure that all pupils' voices are heard, and the religious education curriculum is broad and balanced, it is expected that there are opportunities to consider other religions and world views such as the Bahá'í Faith, Jainism and Zoroastrianism and secular philosophies such as humanism.

Pupils should also study how religions relate to them, recognising both similarities and differences within and between religions. Pupils should be able to hold balanced and well-informed conversations about religions and beliefs.

They should be encouraged to reflect on:

- the significance of interfaith dialogue,
- the important contribution religion can make to community cohesion,
- the reduction of religious prejudice and discrimination.

About Religious Education in the Curriculum

Supporting the values of the curriculum

Religious education actively promotes the values of truth, justice, respect for all and care of the environment. It places specific emphasis on:

- pupils valuing themselves and others,
- the role of family and the community in religious belief and activity,
- the celebration of diversity in society through understanding similarities and differences,
- sustainable development of the earth and care for creation.

Religious education also recognises the changing nature of society, including changes in religious practice and expression and the influence of religion, in the local, national and global community.

Distinctive contribution of Religious Education

Religious education has a distinctive character that needs to be recognised and safeguarded. It makes its own contribution to the school curriculum in terms of knowledge, concepts, skills and attitudes, as well as sharing common ground with other subjects in contributing to the spiritual, moral, cultural, social and mental development of pupils and preparing them for adult life. The subject is concerned to promote, through an encounter with Christianity and other religions and worldviews, a pupil's search for values, meaning and purpose. Any form of integration of the subject with other areas of the curriculum must ensure that the distinctive subject matter of Christianity and other religious beliefs and worldviews is adequately covered. Care must be taken to ensure that pupils develop the ability to perceive and appreciate the use of simile, metaphor and other forms of both verbal and non-verbal expression used in religious communication.

Statutory requirements for the provision of RE and World views

The statutory requirements for RE were set out between 1944 and 1993. They were consolidated by the Education Act (1996) and the School Standards and Framework Act (1998). Circular 1/94 and the subsequent revision of guidance in 2010 (RE in English Schools: Non - Statutory Guidance 2010) offered an interpretation of the legislation

All pupils are entitled to be taught religions and worldviews in every year up to and including year 11. Post 16 students, including those in Further Education should have the opportunity to study religions and worldviews during the post 16 course of study.

Religious education shall be provided for all registered pupils

- Religious education must be nondenominational.
- The agreed syllabus must “reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian whilst taking account of the teaching and practice of other principal religions represented in Great Britain.
- The religious education syllabus is distinct from collective worship.
- The requirement for Special Schools is that they should follow the Agreed Syllabus where practicable.
- Voluntary aided schools with a religious character should provide RE in accordance with the trust deed or religious designation of the school, unless parents request the locally agreed syllabus.
- Foundation schools and voluntary controlled schools with a religious character should follow the locally agreed syllabus, unless parents request RE in accordance with the trust deed or religious designation of the school.
- RE and assemblies are compulsory in academies and free schools.

Curriculum Time

Schools have a statutory responsibility to deliver RE to all pupils, except those withdrawn by parents.

Schools should allocate sufficient time to deliver RE successfully and to a high standard, enabling all pupils to make progress in developing their knowledge, understanding and associated skills. It is important to provide the time for pupils to explore the content in depth. The expectation is that a minimum of 5% of curriculum time should be allocated to RE in school. This equates to the following:

| Age Group | Curriculum Time |
|--------------------|--|
| Reception | 36 hours per year integrated into relevant strands of the EYFS |
| Key Stage 1 | 36 hours per year |
| Key Stage 2 | 45 hours per year |
| Key Stage 3 | 45 hours per year |
| Key Stage 4 | Short course GCSE or non-examined course: a minimum of 1 hour per week. Full course GCSE equal time to other Humanities GCSE subjects |
| Key Stage 5 | Minimum of 20 hours per year for core RE |

RE should be taught in clearly identifiable time.

Any school in which Headteachers and governors do not plan to allocate curriculum time for RE is unlikely to enable pupils to achieve the standards set out in the syllabus.

A parent may request:

- that their child be either wholly or partly excused from receiving RE given in accordance with the Agreed Syllabus,
- that a pupil who is wholly or partly excused from receiving RE provided by the school may receive RE of the kind desired by the parents elsewhere, provided that it will not interfere with the attendance of the pupil on any day except at the beginning or end of the school session.

The provision of religious education is required for all in the sixth form. Although the organisation may change from pre-16 there should be continuing provision for RE in Years 12 and 13 to meet the needs of the students and the requirements of this syllabus.

Resources

Schools should deliver the RE curriculum in an exciting and dynamic way, including the use of books, artefacts, ICT and video materials. Provision should include high quality resources to enable educational visits and visitors from faith communities in school. This should be at a level at least equivalent to the level that is provided for foundation subjects.

Purpose of Study

Religious education contributes dynamically to children and young people's education in schools by provoking challenging questions about meaning and purpose in life, beliefs about God, ultimate reality, issues of right and wrong and what it means to be human. In RE, pupils learn about and from religions and worldviews in local, national and global contexts to discover, explore and consider different answers to these questions using different sources.

Teaching therefore should equip pupils with systematic knowledge and understanding of a range of religions and worldviews, enabling them to develop their ideas, values and identities. It should develop an aptitude for dialogue so that they can participate positively in our society with its diverse religions and worldviews. Pupils should gain and deploy the skills needed to understand, interpret and evaluate texts, sources of wisdom and authority and other evidence. They should learn to articulate clearly and coherently their personal beliefs, ideas, values and experiences while respecting the right of others to differ.

Aims of the Local Agreed Syllabus

The syllabus aims to provide pupils with the substantive and disciplinary knowledge to understand the significance of religions and worldviews to allow them to develop their own personal insights understanding and the skills required to engage with the subject matter

The aims set out below are also to develop the skills needed to engage with the subject matter to enable pupils to know and understand about religion and worldviews. These three aims are expanded upon further in the assessment section.

A. Knowledge and Understanding

- Describe and explain beliefs and practices, recognising the diversity which exists within and between communities.
- Identify, discuss and respond to sources of wisdom found in religions and worldviews.
- Investigate the nature and diversity of religious practices, ways of life and ways of expressing meaning.

B. Application and Interpretation

- Interpret key concepts and ideas and apply them to questions of belonging, meaning and truth, expressing their own ideas and opinions.
- Draw conclusions about what enables different communities to live together respectfully for the well-being of all.
- Articulate clearly learning about beliefs, values and commitments and explain why they may be important in pupils' own and other people's lives.

C. Analysis and Evaluation

- Justify their own ideas about how beliefs, practices and forms of expression influence individuals and communities.
- Express with increasing discernment their personal reflections and critical responses to questions and teachings about identity, diversity, meaning and value.
- Appreciate and appraise varied dimensions of religion linking these to British values.

Religious Education in the School Curriculum

RE is a statutory subject of the school curriculum of maintained schools. Academies and free schools are contractually required through the terms of their funding to make provision for the teaching of RE to all pupils on the school roll. Alongside the subject's contribution to pupils' mental, cognitive and linguistic development, RE offers distinctive opportunities to promote pupils' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development. RE lessons should offer a structured and safe space during curriculum time for reflection, discussion, dialogue and debate. Lessons should also allow for timely and sensitive responses to be made to unforeseen events of a religious, moral or philosophical nature, whether local, national or global.

The Breadth of Religious Education

The law requires that local authority RE agreed syllabuses and RE syllabuses used in academies that are not designated with a religious character 'must reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian, while taking account of the teaching and practices of the other principal religions represented in Great Britain'(Education Act 1996). This means that from the ages of 5 to 19 pupils in schools learn about diverse religions and worldviews including Christianity and the other principal religions. All schools need to recognise the diversity of the UK and the importance of learning about its religions and worldviews, including those with a significant local presence.

Religions Studied

This Locally Agreed Syllabus requires that:

- Christianity should be studied throughout each key stage.

- The other principal religions represented in Great Britain (here regarded as Buddhism, Hinduism, Islam, Judaism and Sikhism) should be studied across the key stages.
- Other religions and worldviews and traditions represented in Great Britain such as the Bahá'í Faith, Jainism and Zoroastrianism may also be studied.

This syllabus recommends that Primary and Secondary schools should work alongside each other in development of their curriculum to aid progression and continuity between key stages.

The intention of this syllabus is to ensure that all pupils gain a basic understanding of the principal religions in Great Britain by the time they leave school. This does not preclude schemes of work from covering those specified religions in greater depth or from including content from other religions or beliefs if appropriate. This should not, however, result in pupils being confused by covering too many religions or beliefs in insufficient depth.

The arrangement to teach religions other than Christianity over the Primary and Secondary phase is to enable the greatest flexibility possible while ensuring a broad coverage. To provide a coherent scheme of work religions other than Christianity should be planned over two Key Stages (Key Stages 1 and 2; Key Stages 3 and 4).

Schools will need to liaise where necessary to ensure that this is planned effectively particularly where a school does not cover the whole of the Key Stages.

At Key Stage 4 all schemes developed in schools should comply with the principles set out in this syllabus. It is recommended that all pupils follow a syllabus leading towards an accredited course such as GCSE Religious Studies (short or full course). In order to comply with this syllabus schools that choose not to follow a course leading to a GCSE qualification should follow a course that meets the GCSE criteria. For special schools an appropriate scheme should be devised.

Learning across the curriculum

The Contribution of Religious Education

RE and British Values should actively promote the British values of:

- democracy
- the rule of law
- individual liberty
- mutual respect
- tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs.

RE lessons should be a safe place for pupils to learn, safely express ideas, opinions, promote debate and discussion. Excellent teaching of RE will enable pupils to learn to think for themselves about British values.

In RE pupils learn the skills and develop attitudes that supports them to overcome intolerance leading to respect which allows them to celebrate diversity.

Promoting spiritual, moral, social and cultural development through religious education.

Religious education provides opportunities to promote spiritual development through:

- discussing and reflecting on key questions of meaning and truth such as the origins of the universe, life after death, good and evil, beliefs about God and values such as justice, honesty and truth,
- learning about and reflecting on important concepts, experiences and beliefs that are at the heart of religious and other traditions and practices,
- considering how beliefs and concepts in religion may be expressed through the creative and expressive arts and related to the human and natural sciences thereby contributing to personal and communal identity,
- considering how religions and other world views perceive the value of human beings, and their relationships with one another, with the natural world, and with God,
- valuing relationships and developing a sense of belonging,
- developing their own views and ideas on religious and spiritual issues.

Religious education provides opportunities to promote moral development through:

- enhancing the values identified within the curriculum particularly valuing diversity and engaging in issues of truth, justice and trust,
- exploring the influence of family, friends and media on moral choices and how society is influenced by beliefs, teachings, sacred texts and guidance from religious leaders,
- considering what is of ultimate value to pupils and believers through studying the key beliefs and teachings from religion and philosophy about values and ethical codes of practice,
- studying a range of ethical issues, including those that focus on justice and creation to promote racial and religious respect and personal integrity,
- considering the importance of rights and responsibilities and developing a sense of conscience.

Religious education provides opportunities to promote social development through:

- considering how religious and other beliefs lead to particular actions and concerns,
- investigating social issues from religious perspectives, recognising the diversity of viewpoints within and between religions as well as the common ground between religions,
- articulating pupils' own and others' ideas on a range of contemporary social issues.

Religious education provides opportunities to promote cultural development through:

- encountering people, literature, the creative and expressive arts and resources from differing cultures,
- considering the relationship between religion and cultures and how religions and beliefs contribute to cultural identity and practices,
- promoting racial and interfaith harmony and respect for all, combating prejudice and discrimination, contributing positively to community cohesion and promoting awareness of how interfaith cooperation can support the pursuit of the common good.

Part 2 The Syllabus

Early Years Foundation Stage

Pupils in the EYFSS should explore a variety of religious and worldviews by identifying special people, books, times, places and objects, and (where appropriate) by visiting places of worship. Pupils should listen to, discuss and ask questions about stories from a variety of sources, religions and worldviews. Pupils can be introduced to subject specific vocabulary and use all their senses to explore beliefs, practices and forms of expression. Pupils should be encouraged to ask questions and reflect on their own feelings and experiences. Pupils should use their imagination and curiosity to develop their appreciation for the world in which they live.

Religious education is a legal requirement for all pupils on the school roll, including those in the Reception year.

Pupils are assessed against the EYFS Profile in all Areas of Learning at the end of their Reception year. Religious education can be woven into all seven Areas of Learning, through a creative and inspiring curriculum which reflects the demographic of individual cohorts. Religious education is not currently assessed as a stand-alone subject (in most schools) for Reception pupils.

RE in the EYFS should focus on developing pupils questioning skills through good Early Years practice in communication skills. Therefore, teachers may wish to centre their RE teaching and learning around some key enquiry-based questions. Pupils will then explore 'answering' these questions in relation to their own experience, as well as the experiences of their peers. Following an enquiry-based approach will allow pupils to explore their own beliefs and the beliefs of their peers. This style of teaching and learning can also be adapted and developed to reflect the beliefs and cultures that are relevant to individual cohorts. Some possible enquiry questions could be:

| Who are special people? | What are special books? | Which places are special? | What times are special? | What are special objects and symbols? |
|--|---|--|--|---|
| -Pupils can explore who are the special people in their lives and what makes them special. -Links can be made to religious leaders/ important figures and what makes them special to people belonging to that faith. | -Pupils can explore different religious text and what makes them special for people of those faiths. -Pupils can make links to special books in their lives and how they handle them with care and respect. | -Pupils can visit places of worship and discuss why people visit them. -Pupils can make links to special places in their own lives and discuss and ask questions about why those places are special to each other. | -Pupils can explore festivals and celebrations from various cultures and religions. -Pupils can share special times that they share with their families and discuss and ask questions with each other. | -Pupils can look at religious symbols and objects and their meanings. -Pupils can share some of their own special objects and discuss how they handle them with care and respect. |

Key Stage 1

During Key Stage 1 pupils should be taught the knowledge and skills in order to understand:

- Christianity
- at least one other principal religion

And where appropriate:

- a religious community with a significant local presence
- a secular worldview

Schools should consider the following points when deciding upon a second principal religion:

- the connections between the Abrahamic religions of Christianity, Judaism and Islam,
- understanding of non-Abrahamic religions such as Hinduism or Sikhism,
- the local context and local faith communities,
- coherence and progression for KS2.

When planning the KS1 curriculum teachers need to think carefully about the sequencing of units of work to ensure coherence and progression. Units of work should build on previous learning, provide clear end points and enable pupils to connect learning across units. Regular opportunities should be provided for pupils to review their learning (see assessment details).

Schools should also consider:

- visiting places of worship,
- inviting visitors from local faith communities,
- opportunities to extend pupils learning by encouraging creativity,
- using ICT imaginatively,
- to explore religions and worldviews studied.

During Key Stage 1 study pupils learn about the key characteristics of the religions and worldviews studied and their significance and impact in Britain. Pupils should be able to communicate their understanding using specific vocabulary, apply their learning,ask questions and share their own ideas.

Teachers may wish to plan a unit of work which explores several themes or may chose to focus a unit around one particular theme. A unit of work might ask, 'What do Christians say God is like?' (core beliefs) or "What do Muslim families do the celebrate the birth of a baby?'(identity/daily life) or 'Why is learning to do good deeds important for Jewish families?', which will focus on aspects from several themes. However, over the key stage pupils should cover all the themes. Pupils should be given the chance to demonstrate their learning and apply their knowledge in creative and expressive ways.

Units of work should be planned to include the following themes:

| Themes for Study | Key Learning and Suggestions |
|--|--|
| Core Beliefs, Ideas and Symbols | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about and understand the main beliefs/concepts and teachings of the religions studied. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • core concepts and ideas such as beliefs about God, Allah, creation, mitzvot, • principal sources of authority such as the Bible, Torah, Qur'an, • important stories - Old Testament stories, New Testament stories, The Night of Power, Rama and Sita, • significant religious leaders such as Moses, David, Muhammad, Esther, Ibrahim, • important symbols and artefacts such as Ner Tamid, prayer beads, cross. |
| Expression of Faith | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about how people express their belief and faith as individuals, groups and communities. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • through worship at home, • worship and attendance at a place of worship- synagogue, man dir, mosque, church, • major celebrations and festivals such as Easter, Christmas, Eid ul Fitr, Sukkot, Hanukkah, Diwali. |
| Identity-daily life | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about the daily lives of people in the religions studied and how they reflect their religion and sense of belonging For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the daily life of a Christian, Muslim or Jewish child, • special clothes, food, personal devotion, • rituals and traditions that mark important events – birth customs. |
| Social Action - putting beliefs into action | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about how people of faith put their beliefs into practice and actions individually, as communities and organisations and their link with cultural heritage and British values. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Tikkum Olam, • Christian Aid, • Idabah (worship and belief in action) in the Muslim community, • how different communities and organisations work together to make the world a better place - interfaith projects locally, nationally and globally, • the impact of religions on culture and society – such as the impact of Christianity as basis of UK jurisprudence. |
| Ask big questions and make connections | Pupils should be given the opportunity to think about "big questions" about meaning, purpose and truth, identity, similarities and differences between the religions studied, their own lives and the world around them For example <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • consider issues of right and wrong, • talk about how people should live their lives, • share their own ideas about God and the world. |

During Key Stage 2 pupils should be taught the knowledge and skills in order to understand:

- Christianity
- at least two other principal religions

And where appropriate:

- a religious community with a significant local presence
- a secular worldview

Schools should consider the following points when deciding upon which religions to study:

- the connections between the Abrahamic religions of Christianity, Judaism and Islam,
- understanding of non-Abrahamic religions such as Hinduism or Sikhism,
- the local context and local faith communities,
- how learning builds on KS1 and coherence and progression for KS3.

When planning the KS2 curriculum teachers need to think carefully about the sequencing of units of work to ensure coherence and progression. Units of work should build on previous learning, provide clear end points and enable pupils to connect learning across units. Regular opportunities should be provided for pupils to review their learning (see assessment details).

Schools should also consider:

- visiting places of worship,
- inviting visitors from local faith communities,
- opportunities to extend pupils learning by encouraging creativity,
- using ICT imaginatively to explore religions and worldviews studied.

During Key Stage 2 pupils learn about the key characteristics of the religions and worldviews studied and their significance and impact in Britain and globally. Pupils should be able to communicate their understanding using subject specific vocabulary (Tier 3 vocabulary), apply their learning, ask questions, share their own ideas and make connections between the religions and worldviews studied and wider learning. They should be able to reflect critically on the relevance of their learning, relate this to their own experiences and personal worldview. They should develop the knowledge and skills to hold informed and balanced conversations about religion and belief and the critical thinking skills to approach and question this substantive knowledge as a 'religious education specialist'.

Teachers may wish to plan a unit of work which explores several themes or may chose to focus a unit primarily on one theme. For example, a unit of work might ask 'What is the Bahá'í belief on the Oneness of God, oneness of humanity and oneness of religion?' (beliefs) or 'Why is Rosh Hashanah an important time of the year for the Jewish community?' (practice), or combined themes for example 'How does belief shape identity for Muslims?' (beliefs and identity), 'How do Sikhs express their beliefs in modern Britain?' (beliefs/practices/ identity/ social action). Pupils should also be given the opportunity to explore big questions such as 'What does it mean to be human?' (philosophical). However, over the key stage pupils must cover all these themes. Pupils should be given the chance to demonstrate their learning and apply their knowledge in creative and expressive ways.

Units of work should be planned to include the following themes:

| Themes to Study | Key Learning and suggestions |
|--|---|
| Core concepts, beliefs and ideas | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about and understand the defining beliefs/concepts, ideas and features of a particular religion/ worldview, where these ideas come from and diversity of interpretation. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • beliefs about the nature of God, Trinity, Jesus, the divine, Brahman, Allah, • significant concepts and beliefs - creation, salvation, covenant, teshuvah, karma, samsara, ahimsa, tawhid, prophethood, humanist belief in happiness, • teachings of significant religious leaders – Paul, Muhammad, Moses, Abraham, Guru Nanak and Baha’u’llah, • sources of authority and the key teachings they contain – Bible, Qu’ran, Guru Granth Sahib, Hadith, Vedas, Ramayana, Ten Commandments, Sermon on the Mountain and Beatitudes, • different interpretations of key texts and teachings, • visual symbols– symbol of the dove for the Holy Spirit, symbolism of water, cross, kanda, ichthus, Islamic calligraphy and pattern, aum, • symbolic acts - Holy Communion, Wudu, wearing of phylacteries in Judaism, • the language of belief – Psalms, creeds, liturgy, Shahadah. |
| Practices – how people express their beliefs | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about how people express their belief and faith as individuals, communities, societies and the cultural traditions which are an expression of collective belief. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • features of places of worship and worship traditions - mosque, mandir, church, temple, • denominational worship and traditions - silence, music, • personal devotion and communal worship – symbols and actions, - puja, shrines, • pilgrimage- Hajj, • important festivals and celebrations - Pentecost, Advent, Epiphany, Rosh Hashanah, Pesach, Eid ul Fitr, Eid ul Adha. |
| Identity | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about how religious believers express their beliefs in their daily lives and through significant communal actions, rituals and traditions. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • buildings and architecture as expressions of a community’s beliefs, values and ways of life, • significant rites of passage – Hindu samskaras, Bar/Bat Mitzvah, Hajj, pilgrimage, marriage, • significant customs and traditions – clothing, food, • codes of living – Five pillars of Islam, shariah, Kirat Karni, monastic life. |
| Social Action | Pupils should be given the opportunity to learn about the impact of personal and corporate actions of people of faith/ religious communities and organisations and their link with cultural heritage and British values. For example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • examples of koinonia (fellowship), • inspirational people of faith- Martin Luther King, Mother Theresa, Pope Benedict, Del Lai Lama, Malala Yousafzai and their motivation for how they live their lives, • how different communities and organisations work together to make the world a better place - interfaith projects locally, nationally and globally, • the impact of religions on culture and society – such as the impact of Christianity as basis of UK jurisprudence. |

| Themes to Study | Key Learning and suggestions |
| Explore Philosophical Questions | Pupils should be given the opportunity to think about the nature of knowledge, existence, belonging and truth, ask philosophical questions, sharing and justifying their own beliefs and those of others For example <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the nature of life and death, • issues of right and wrong, • attitudes towards the environment/creation, • issues of fairness and justice, • belief in God or a divine being. |

DRAFT

Key Stage 3

During Key Stage 3, pupils should be taught knowledge, skills and understanding through the following areas of study:

- Christianity
- at least two other principal religions

And where appropriate:

- a religious community with a significant local presence
- a secular worldview

A: Knowledge and Understanding

Schools should ensure the religions identified to be studied reflect the presence of the religions and worldviews represented within the school and the local community. Thus, it may be possible for more religions to be studied other than what is specified such as Bahá'í, Jainism, Zoroastrianism and the Chinese traditions.

B: Application and Interpretation

The purpose of the KS3 curriculum is for pupils to build upon their enquiry skills and to be exposed to the challenges that the ultimate questions warrant. Pupils should be offered the opportunity to immerse themselves in the knowledge of differing worldviews which should reflect the local context. Through studying key themes, pupils will be able to understand differing perspectives and interpretations, and as a result appreciate diversity and social cohesion. These learning outcomes are intrinsically associated with the British Values of mutual respect and tolerance of difference in faith and belief.

| Themes | Potential ways to explore themes |
|----------------------|---|
| Beliefs | With each religion identified to be studied, the following areas should be explored as part of the RE curriculum offered: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Nature of God. • Creation, including beliefs about the world. • The holy book/scriptures associated with the religions such as the Guru Granth Sahib, The Holy Bible, The Qur'an, The Vedas. • Sources of authority and the key teachings they contain such as Jesus, Buddha, Muhammad, the Gurus. |
| Practices | Students will explore the ways in which they may express their faith and practice their religion. Links should be clearly made between scripture and practice, being able to emphasise that beliefs underpin the following areas of a believer's life: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Rites of passage (birth, coming of age, marriage and death). • Worship. • Places of worship. • Sites of pilgrimage. • Festivals and holy periods. |
| Social Action | Schools to choose one concept to be explored through religious teachings and the actions of significant religious figures. To promote the understanding of Christianity, concepts to be studied might include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Poverty. • Inequality. • Same Sex Marriages/Civil Partnerships. • Feminism and Global Warming (environmental issues). |

|-----------------|---|
| | These concepts are to be studied through religious perspectives towards social action. Cross-curricular links can be made between History and Sociology. The following key questions/concepts should shape your schemes of work: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What issues does the concept raise? • How does it influence the practices of religious believers today? • Focus on the actions of a significant religious figure and apply this to the current concept. • Provide the opportunity for pupils to reflect upon their current and future action and how they may be challenged and inspired by particular teachings or people. |
| Identity | Pupils to explore the ways in which religious faith shapes the life of a believer and how they perceive themselves. Pupils need to be exposed to the reality of identity being diverse amongst religions and certain practices must not be generalised. The following should be explored: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Individual and community identity. • Development of community identity and belonging through its historical development and social action. • Customs, clothing and outward signs of identity and belonging. • Guides and codes of living as an expression of identity. • Being part of the local, national and international community. |
| Purpose | Pupils to explore the following ultimate questions considering the religions studied: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Does God exist? • What is the meaning of life and my purpose in the world? • Is there a life after death? • Why is there suffering in the world? • How can science and religion offer an explanation for my existence? |

Pupils will deploy analysis and evaluative skills in exploring different belief systems, reflecting upon their own personal worldview. They may present their work in various ways, developing written skills in preparation for GCSE study and engaging with religious art, music and artefacts to deepen their understanding and application.

Key Stage 4

14-16 year olds

It is recommended that students follow a syllabus towards an accredited course such as GCSE Religious Studies being either full course or short course. The timetable should accommodate this. The syllabus must focus on the study of religion, philosophy and ethics. While there is no legal requirement that students must undertake RE GCSE examinations, students deserve the opportunity to have their learning accredited which increases the value of a statutory subject. Accreditation also raises standards and increases progress as it motivates students. Schools should plan for continuity of provision of religious education throughout key stages so that the curriculum is progressive and challenging.

Two religions are required to be studied at key stage 4, one being Christianity. The second choice of religion should reflect the learning needs of students drawing upon the demographic data of the local area to make an informed decision. The content of the curriculum should be stimulating and expose students to challenging ultimate questions, giving the opportunity to deepen their own personal beliefs. The content of the curriculum should promote social cohesion and spiritual, moral and cultural development. Consequentially, this endorses the British Values of respect, individual liberty and tolerance of different religious and cultural beliefs. Students should embrace the British Values through their learning of RE as an intrinsic outcome of the attainment targets through their learning about and their learning from religion. For schools who opt to follow a non-examined key stage 4, a list of recommended topics to cover is available in the appendices.

16-19 year olds

RE is a necessary part of a broad and balanced curriculum and must be provided for all state-funded schools in England, including sixth form colleges, unless withdrawn by their parents (or if they choose to withdraw themselves if they are aged 18 or over). RE provision should be accessible for students who study in more than one institution. The course at key stage 5 should meet the demands of the assessment. Schools should provide for all students:

- The opportunity to study for at least one course in Religious Education leading to a qualification under Section 96 that represents progressions from key stage 4.
- A course of substance appropriately covering the assessment stated in this syllabus which could be delivered as part of a broader course or through whole school conference days.

All courses should provide opportunities within and beyond school for learning that involves first-hand experiences and activities involving people, places and events. For example, opportunities for students to engage with the places of worship in their local area. Students' learning experiences will reflect the course chosen and thus, may differ amongst schools.

Part 3 Assessment in Religious Education

Assessing achievement at the end of a key stage

School based assessment is an essential part of monitoring pupil progress and is the sole means of statutory assessment throughout key stage 1, 2 and 3. At the end of each key stage pupils should show that they know, understand and can apply the concepts, skills and processes specified in the themes of study.

Assessment should also provide students with the knowledge and skills to enable them to successfully undertake examinations at Key Stage 4. Assessment needs to be challenging and rigorous.

Schools are required to keep records on religious education for all pupils unless they have been withdrawn by their parents. They must update these records at least once a year.

Decisions about how to mark work and record progress are subject to individual school policy.

In deciding on a pupil's achievement at the end of a key stage, teachers may judge which description in the assessment criteria best fits the pupil's performance. When doing so, each aim should be considered alongside the bullet points descriptors.

It is important to note that not all aspects of religious education can be assessed. For example, pupils may express personal views and ideas that, although integral to teaching and learning, would not be appropriate for formal assessment.

Skills to be developed through RE

Progress in RE depends upon the development of the following generic learning skills applied to RE. These skills should be used in developing a range of activities for pupils to demonstrate their capabilities in RE. They ensure that teachers will move pupils on from knowledge accumulation and work that is merely descriptive to higher-level thinking and more sophisticated skills.

Investigation and enquiry

- ask relevant and increasingly deep questions,
- use a range of sources and evidence, including sacred texts,
- identify and talk about key concepts,
- know what may constitute evidence for justifying religious beliefs.

Critical thinking and reflection

- analyse information and make judgements,
- reflect on feelings, relationships, experience, ultimate questions, beliefs and practices,
- ask and discuss ultimate questions and experiences.

Empathy

- consider the thoughts, feelings, experiences, attitudes, beliefs and values of others,
- develop the ability to identify feelings such as love, wonder, forgiveness and sorrow,
- see the world through the eyes of others.

Interpretation

- interpret religious language and meaning,
- draw meaning from religious artefacts, works of art, music, poetry and symbols,
- suggest meanings of religious texts.

Analysis

- distinguish between opinion, beliefs and fact,
- distinguish between the features of different religions and beliefs.

Synthesis

- link significant features of religion and belief together in a coherent pattern,
- connect different aspects of life into a meaningful whole.

Application

- make the association between religion / belief and individual, community, national and international life.

Evaluation

- draw conclusions with reference to experience, reason, evidence and dialogue,
- express views, and respond to questions of religion and belief through a variety of media.

Expectations, progression and achievement in religious education

By the end of each key stage, pupils are expected to know, apply and understand the matters, skills and processes specified in the relevant themes of study. There is a clear expectation that pupils' achievements will continue to be weighed up by teachers using criteria arising from the themes of study.

The DfE expects schools to have a curriculum and assessment framework that meets a set of core principles as teachers in RE plan particular ways of describing achievement in RE in those schools for which they have responsibility.

The core principles are that assessment should:

- 1) set out steps so that pupils reach or exceed the end of key stage expectations,
- 2) enable teachers to measure whether pupils are on track to meet end of key stage expectations,
- 3) enable teachers to pinpoint the aspects of the curriculum in which pupils are falling behind, and recognise exceptional performance,
- 4) support teachers' planning for all pupils,
- 5) enable the teacher to report regularly to parents and, where pupils move to other schools, providing clear information about each pupil's strengths, weaknesses and progress towards the end of key stage expectations.

Key Stage One

Aim A Knowledge and Understanding

A1 Describe and explain beliefs, and practices, recognising the diversity which exists within and between communities.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Recall and name different beliefs, practices, major festivals, rituals, artefacts and ways of life particular to the religions and worldviews studied.
- Find out about the meaning behind these.

A2 Identify, discuss and respond to sources of wisdom found in religions and worldviews.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Retell and suggest meanings to some religious and moral stories.
- Explore and discuss sacred writings and sources of wisdom, recognising the communities from which they derive.

A3 Investigate the nature and diversity of different religious practices, ways of life and ways of expressing meaning

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Recognise different symbols and actions and key practices associated with religious communities.
- Identify and make connections between religious communities.

Aim B Application and Interpretation

B1 Interpret key concepts and ideas and apply them to questions of belonging, meaning and truth expressing their own ideas and opinions.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Explore questions about belonging, meaning and truth.
- Express their own ideas and opinions about these questions.
- Respond using words, music, art or poetry.

B2 Draw conclusions about what enables different communities to live together respectfully for the well-being of all.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Find out about examples of co-operation between people who are different.
- Respond to this with their own ideas.

B3 Articulate clearly learning about beliefs, values and commitments and explain why they may be important in pupils' own and other people's lives.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Find out about questions of right and wrong.
- Express their own ideas and opinions in response to this enquiry.

Aim C Analysis and Evaluation

C1 Justify their own ideas about how beliefs, values, practices and forms of expression influence individuals and communities.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Ask and respond to questions about what communities do, and why.
- Give reasons to support judgements about what difference belonging to a community makes.

C2 Express with increasing discernment their personal reflections and critical responses to questions and teachings about identity, diversity, meaning and value.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Reflect upon their own personal values of identity and belonging to draw a meaning from these.

C3 Appreciate and appraise varied dimensions of religion linking these to British values.

At the end of KS1, pupils will be able to:

- Identify and evaluate some religious and cultural differences between religions with the aim of promoting mutual respect and interfaith dialogue.

Key Stage Two

Aim A Knowledge and Understanding

A1 Describe and explain beliefs, and practices, recognising the diversity which exists within and between communities.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Describe and make connections between different features of the religions and worldviews studied.
- Discover more about celebrations, worship, pilgrimages and the rituals, which mark important points in life.
- Reflect on their own ideas and make a personal response.

A2 Identify, discuss and respond to sources of wisdom found in religions and worldviews.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Describe and understand links between stories and other aspects of the communities they are investigating.
- Respond thoughtfully to the beliefs and teachings that arise from a range of sources of wisdom within different communities.

A3 Investigate the nature and diversity of different religious practices, ways of life and ways of expressing meaning.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Explore and describe the meaning of a range of beliefs, symbols, and practices.
- Understand the significance of symbols and practices.

Aim B Application and Interpretation

B1 Interpret key concepts and ideas and apply them to questions of belonging, meaning and truth expressing their own ideas and opinions.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Discuss and present their own and other's views on challenging questions about belonging, meaning, purpose and truth.
- Draw upon a variety of creative means to further understand their knowledge and understanding of key religious concepts.

B2 Draw conclusions about what enables different communities to live together respectfully for the well-being of all.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Consider ways in which diverse communities can live together for the well-being of all and how these might be applied.
- Respond thoughtfully to ideas about community, values and respect.

B3 Articulate clearly learning about beliefs, values and commitments and explain reasons why they may be important in pupils' own and other people's lives.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Discuss and apply their own, and other's ideas about ethical questions, including ideas about what is right or wrong and what is just and fair.
- Express their own views clearly in response to this enquiry.

Aim C Analysis and Evaluation

C1 Justify their ideas about how beliefs and practices and forms of expression influence individuals and communities.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Observe and understand varied examples of religions and worldviews.
- Explain, with reasons, the practices of the religions and worldviews studied to individuals and communities.

C2 Express with increasing discernment their personal reflections and critical responses to questions and teachings about identity, diversity, meaning and value.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Understand the challenges of commitment to a community of faith or belief.
- Suggest why belonging to a community may be valuable, both in the diverse communities being studied and in their own lives.

C3 Appreciate and appraise varied dimensions of religion linking these to British values.

At the end of KS2, pupils will be able to:

- Understand and evaluate the value of diversity within religion.
- Identify and evaluate some religious and cultural differences between religions with the aim of promoting mutual respect and interfaith dialogue.

Key Stage Three

Aim A Knowledge and Understanding

A1 Describe and explain beliefs, and practices, recognising the diversity which exists within and between communities.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Know and understand the ways that history and culture of religions and worldviews influence individuals and communities, including a wide range of beliefs and practices.
- Evaluate reasons why some people support, and others question, these influences.

A2 Identify, discuss and respond to sources of wisdom found in religions and worldviews.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Know and understand a range of beliefs and teachings that derive from a source of wisdom and authority.
- Understand the diverse responses within religions to ethical concepts and their impact on world issues.

A3 Investigate the nature and diversity of different religious practices, ways of life and ways of expressing meaning.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Explain how and why individuals and communities express the meanings of their beliefs and values in many different forms and ways of living.
- Know and understand the differences and relationships that exist within and between the different value systems.

Aim B Application and Interpretation

B1 interpret key concepts and ideas and apply them to questions of belonging, meaning and truth so that they can express their own ideas and opinions.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Investigate some of the ultimate questions which explore moral and spiritual beliefs and to critically reflect upon their personal responses to these.
- Express insights that draw on a wide range of examples including the arts, media and philosophy.

B2 Draw conclusions about what enables different communities to live together respectfully for the well-being of all.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Research ethical issues about community cohesion and respect for all associated with different perspectives from varied religions and worldviews.

B3 Articulate clearly learning about beliefs, values and commitments and explain why they may be important in pupils' own and other people's lives.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Coherently articulate differing religious responses to moral and ethical questions associated with human life.
- Express personal and reasoned insights into these issues by drawing on a range of examples from the arts and media.

Aim C Analysis and Interpretation

C1 Justify their own ideas about how beliefs and practices and forms of expression influence individuals and communities.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Clearly articulate the differences between religions and worldviews, which they have encountered, reasonably and coherently.
- Evaluate religious responses to social and world issues to analyse the different approaches.

C2 Express with increasing discernment their personal reflections and critical responses to questions and teachings about identity, diversity, meaning and value.

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Explore and identify a wide range of ways in which commitment and identity are expressed.
- Evaluate and analyse controversy and diversity within religious and non-religious worldviews emphasising an appreciation for individuality in their responses.

C3 Appreciate and appraise varied dimensions of religion linking these to British values

At the end of KS3, pupils will be able to:

- Analyse differing approaches to ethical dilemmas.

- Analyse how Holy Books and Scriptures influence the actions of religious individuals.

DRAFT

Part 4 Religious Education in Special Schools

RE is a statutory part of the core curriculum for all pupils. The intent of this religious education agreed syllabus is to ensure that RE is for all. Every pupil can achieve and benefit from their RE including pupils with Special Education Needs and Disabilities (SEND). Good quality teaching and learning in RE involves planning to cater for the needs of all pupils. Often pupils with SEND find RE concepts difficult to understand.

All staff should be involved in developing school policies and be fully aware of the school's procedures for identifying, assessing and making provision for all pupils' needs. Staff should help pupils with SEND to overcome any barriers to participating in learning, and make any reasonable adjustments needed to include identified pupils in all aspects of school life.

"Religious education provokes challenging questions about the ultimate meaning and purpose of life, beliefs about God, the self and the nature of reality, issues of right and wrong and what it means to be human. It develops pupils' knowledge and understanding of Christianity, other principal religions, other religious traditions and other world views that offer answers to these challenging questions. It offers opportunities for personal reflection and spiritual development. It enhances pupils' awareness and understanding of religions and beliefs, teachings, practices and forms of expression, as well as of the influence of religion on individuals, families, communities and cultures.

RE encourages pupils to learn from different religions, beliefs, values and traditions, while exploring their own beliefs and questions of meaning. It challenges pupils to reflect on, consider, analyse, interpret and evaluate issues of truth, belief, faith and ethics and to communicate their responses.

*RE encourages pupils to develop their sense of identity and belonging. It enables them to flourish individually within their communities and as citizens in a diverse society and global community. RE has an important role in preparing pupils for adult life, employment and lifelong learning. It enables pupils to develop respect for and sensitivity to others, in particular those whose faiths and beliefs are different from their own. It promotes discernment and enables pupils to combat prejudice."*¹

RE offers students with learning difficulties opportunities to:

- Develop their self-confidence and awareness.
- Understand the world they live in as individuals and as members of groups.
- Bring their own experiences and understanding of life into the classroom.
- Develop positive attitudes towards others, respecting their beliefs and experience.
- Reflect on and consider their own values and those of others, and deal with issues that form the basis for personal choices and behaviour.

In response to these opportunities, pupils can make progress in RE:

- by moving from a personal to a wider perspective,
- by increasing their knowledge of religious beliefs, practices and experiences through developing understanding of the meaning of stories, symbols, events and pictures

- through developing and communicating their individual responses to a range of views.²

There are two main strands to Religious education:

- 1) Learning about religion – in which pupils begin their knowledge and understanding by becoming aware that some objects and people are in some way special. Pupils may be given experiences of different religions in their own community and the wider world. This might involve pupils engaging with people who practise different religions – through personal contact, visits, pictures or stories – and learning about items that have special meaning for believers – e.g. certain foods, clothing, artefacts used in religious practices.
- 2) Learning from religion – pupils should be given opportunities to express their own ideas and feelings in a variety of ways.

Lessons need to be adapted to allow these pupils to learn and express themselves. They may need to express in alternative ways to verbal or written.

Anne Krisman, a teacher at Little Heath School in the London Borough of Redbridge, advocates Five Keys of planning for SEND pupils.

The 'Five Keys Into RE' planning puts the child as central at the learning. Teachers could use themes from the Agreed Syllabus to explore topics recognising that children with special needs work more slowly and may need more time to discover the deeper meaning of RE. Therefore, the focus is on what should be taught and experienced, not on differentiating mainstream concepts that many not have any meaning to SEND pupils. Emphasis is given to sensory and creative activities, but within an authentic RE context and with clear faith markers.

The 5 Keys grid takes five Key categories to help the teacher to focus their planning:

- 1) Connection: what links can we make with our pupils' lives?
- 2) Knowledge: how to create a bridge between pupils' experiences and the religious theme?
- 3) Senses: what sensory elements are in religion?
- 4) Symbols: what are the symbols that are most accessible?
- 5) Values: what are the values in the religion that speak to us?

- 1) Connection– What links can we make with our pupils' lives?

It is important to bond the pupil with the religious theme. Pupils with special needs have faced difficulty, struggle and loss in their lives and achieve often against tremendous odds. These themes are found in religion. To create a bridge, (a concept from the Warwick Religions Project), between the religious theme and the child means that the learning will be deeper. For example, work on the story of Diwali could begin with the idea that 'sometimes we go away, but it is good to be back home'. This Key here would link many pupils' experience of respite care and their strong daily experience of getting on the school transport to go home with the story of Rama returning from exile.

- 2) Knowledge– What is at the burning core of the faith?

Special school pupils can take longer to process information. Rather than over-burdening the child with extraneous information, we need to look right into the heart of the religious theme and see exactly what knowledge what needs to be taught. It could be simply that Jesus loved everyone, especially if they were poor or unhappy, or that Sikhs have special teachers called gurus. This Key state that by cutting out peripheral information, but going straight to the core, we teach what is central and powerful.

² QCA, 2009

3) Senses– What sensory elements are in the religion?

Special school pupils learn through their senses. This Key encourages teachers to look at a wide range of authentic sensory experiences that link with the theme. This could mean within a theme on Jewish prayer, listening to niggun melody, with repetitive sounds, or wrapping around with a large tallit.

4) Symbols– What are the symbols that are the most accessible?

Symbols are an important way of conveying the spirituality of the religion studied. They can be held, like a brass ik onkar, made the focus of art work, such as rubbing over a stencil of an om with crayon and adding glitter to make it beautiful, or experienced, such as using a hoop to symbolise a kara, and travelling around it again and again by walking or in a wheelchair. This would show the eternity of God. This Key therefore sees symbols as an encapsulation of the religion itself.

5) Values– What are the values in the religion that speak to us?

Pupils with special needs may have many difficulties but often like to help. They are aware of others helping them in their lives and the importance of saying thank you. This Key makes values central, so a unit on the life of the Buddha could focus on the importance of patience, using a Jataka story. This links with pupils needing to wait for help with their work, or waiting for the school transport to come at the end of the day. The second column is Focus and here the Key question is answered by pointers to activities. Here is the Key question and Focus for 'How and Why do Hindus Celebrate Diwali?'³

Assessment for pupils with SEND

In recent years performance descriptors (P scales) have been used to assess pupils aged 5-16 identified with SEND needs who cannot access the descriptors of the Agreed Syllabus. This describes the types and range of performance that pupils with SEND might characteristically demonstrate. These have been applied to Key Stages 1, 2 and 3.

P scales 1–3 addressed very early levels of learning and are the same in all subjects but illustrated with subject-specific examples. For example, P1 (ii) included: "They may give intermittent reactions, for example, vocalising occasionally during group celebrations and acts of worship." P3 (i) indicates: "They explore materials in increasingly complex ways, for example, stroking or shaking artefacts or found objects."

From P4, each subject had its own progression.

For example:

³ Taken from Anne Krisman (permission is being sought)

At P5, pupils respond appropriately to simple questions about familiar religious events or experiences.

At P6, pupils show concern and sympathy for others in distress.

At P7, pupils communicate their ideas about religion, life events and experiences in simple phrases.

At P8, pupils are often sensitive to the needs and feelings of others and show respect for themselves and others.

From P8, pupils moved to the national curriculum levels.

While a typically developing child would have achieved P8 by the age of four, some pupils would have taken considerably longer.

In Key Stage 4, the P scales and performance descriptors have been used as non-statutory guidelines describing some of the types and range of performance that pupils with SEND who cannot access the Agreed Syllabus might characteristically have demonstrated

Performance Descriptors

P1 (i) Pupils encounter activities and experiences

- They may be passive or resistant.
- They may show simple reflex responses (for example, startling at sudden noises or movements).
- Any participation is fully prompted.

P1 (ii) Pupils show emerging awareness of activities and experiences

- They may have periods when they appear alert and ready to focus their attention on certain people, events, objects or parts of objects [for example, becoming still in response to silence].
- They may give intermittent reactions [for example, vocalising occasionally during group celebrations and acts of worship].

P2 (i) Pupils begin to respond consistently to familiar people, events and objects

- They react to new activities and experiences [for example, briefly looking around in unfamiliar natural and manmade environments].
- They begin to show interest in people, events and objects [for example, leaning towards the source of a light, sound or scent].
- They accept and engage in coactive exploration [for example, touching a range of religious artefacts and found objects in partnership with a member of staff].

P2 (ii) Pupils begin to be proactive in their interactions

- They communicate consistent preferences and affective responses [for example, showing that they have enjoyed an experience or interaction].
- They recognise familiar people, events and objects [for example, becoming quiet and attentive during a certain piece of music].
- They perform actions, often by trial and improvement, and they remember learned responses over short periods of time [for example, repeating a simple action with an artefact].

- They cooperate with shared exploration and supported participation [for example, performing gestures during ritual exchanges with another person performing gestures].

P3 (i) Pupils begin to communicate intentionally

- They seek attention through eye contact, gesture or action.
- They request events or activities [for example, prompting a visitor to prolong an interaction]
- They participate in shared activities with less support. They sustain concentration for short periods.
- They explore materials in increasingly complex ways [for example, stroking or shaking artefacts or found objects].
- They observe the results of their own actions with interest [for example, when vocalising in a quiet place].
- They remember learned responses over more extended periods [for example, following a familiar ritual and responding appropriately].

P3 (ii) Pupils use emerging conventional communication

- They greet known people and may initiate interactions and activities [for example, prompting an adult to sing or play a favourite song] They can remember learned responses over increasing periods of time and may anticipate known events [for example, celebrating the achievements of their peers in assembly].
- They may respond to options and choices with actions or gestures [for example, choosing to participate in activities].
- They actively explore objects and events for more extended periods [for example, contemplating the flickering of a candle flame].
- They apply potential solutions systematically to problems [for example, passing an artefact to a peer in order to prompt participation in a group activity].

P4 Pupils use single elements of communication [for example, words, gestures, signs or symbols, to express their feelings]

- They show they understand 'yes' and 'no'. They begin to respond to the feelings of others [for example, matching their emotions and laughing when another pupil is laughing].
- They join in with activities by initiating ritual actions or sounds. They may demonstrate an appreciation of stillness and quietness.

P5 Pupils respond appropriately to simple questions about familiar religious events or experiences and communicate simple meanings

- They respond to a variety of new religious experiences [for example, involving music, drama, colour, lights, food, or tactile objects].
- They take part in activities involving two or three other learners.
- They may also engage in moments of individual reflection.

P6 Pupils express and communicate their feelings in different ways

- They respond to others in group situations and cooperate when working in small groups.
- Pupils listen to, and begin to respond to, familiar religious stories, poems and music, and make their own contribution to celebrations and festivals.
- They carry out ritualised actions in familiar circumstances.
- They show concern and sympathy for others in distress [for example, through gestures, facial expressions or by offering comfort].
- They start to be aware of their own influence on events and other people.

P7 Pupils listen to and follow religious stories

- They communicate their ideas about religion, life events and experiences in simple phrases
- They evaluate their own work and behaviour in simple ways, beginning to identify some actions as right or wrong on the basis of the consequences.
- They find out about aspects of religion through stories, music or drama, answer questions and communicate their responses.
- They may communicate their feelings about what is special to them [for example, using role play].
- They begin to understand that other people have needs and to respect these.
- They make purposeful relationships with others in group activity.

P8 Pupils listen attentively to religious stories or to people talking about religion

- They begin to understand that religious and other stories carry moral and religious meaning.
- They are increasingly able to communicate ideas, feelings or responses to experiences or to retell religious stories.
- They communicate simple facts about religion and important people in religions they begin to realise the significance of religious artefacts, symbols and places.
- They reflect on what makes them happy, sad, excited or lonely They demonstrate a basic understanding of what is right and wrong in familiar.
- situations They are often sensitive to the needs and feelings of others and show respect for themselves and others They treat living things and their environment with care and concern.

These "P Levels" are taken from the DfE document "Performance – P Scale – attainment targets for pupils with special educational needs" published in July 2014. The full document is available.

At the time of writing this Agreed Syllabus it is understood that from September 2020 the P scales will be replaced by the Engagement Model. Currently we do not know what this will look like for Religious education.

Main principles are taken from "The Engagement model: Guidance for maintained schools, academies (including free schools) and local authorities July 2020".

- The engagement model is an assessment tool that helps schools meet their duties in supporting pupils who are working below the level of the national curriculum and who are not engaged in subject-specific study.
- The model has 5 areas:
 - 1) Exploration
 - 2) Realisation
 - 3) Anticipation
 - 4) Persistence
 - 5) Initiation
- Engagement identifies and celebrates all pupils' progress, including linear and lateral progress, the consolidation and maintenance of knowledge, skills and concepts and the prevention or slowing of a decline in pupils' performance, whilst recognising that a minority of pupils may have a regressive condition.

- Engagement can help schools reflect on how well the bespoke curriculum they offer to their pupils is helping them progress. It will not necessarily replace a school's existing plans, assessments and reporting systems, but adds value to them by helping schools assess pupils' progress from a different angle.
- Effective use of the engagement model is based on regular observational assessment and reflective pedagogy. Assessments should be conducted by someone who knows the pupil well so that schools are able to identify existing educational barriers.
- Progress through each of the 5 areas of engagement should be measured by identifying how established the pupil is against each of the areas of engagement. This will differ for each pupil according to their profile of needs as set out in their Education, Health and Care (EHC) plan.
- The model combines a formative and summative assessment approach. It should be used to assess pupils' progress and development regularly throughout the year. This enables a continuous cycle of 'assess, plan, do and review' to take place, which enables the pupils' achievements and progress to be measured over time.
- Schools are not required to submit data to the Department for Education (DfE) about the achievements and progress of each pupil. However, schools must report which primary-aged pupils are being assessed using the engagement model.
- Schools can use the engagement model across all key stages, including for pupils attending secondary schools, as the principles of engagement are equally relevant to pupils of all ages. However, there is no statutory requirement to do so, and in key stages 3 and 4 and in post-16 education, schools and colleges should ensure there is an emphasis on how their pupils' acquired skills are preparing them for adulthood.
- The model can be used as a tool for assessing why pupils who are currently working below the level of the national curriculum but are engaged in subject-specific study, may have begun to plateau or regress in their anticipated development outcomes.

Part 5 Legal Requirements

The RE curriculum is determined by the local Standing Advisory Council on Religious Education (SACRE), which is responsible for producing the locally agreed syllabus for RE. Agreed Syllabuses used in schools (maintained or academy), which are not designated with a religious character must 'reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian, while taking account of the teaching and practices of the other principal religions represented in Great Britain'. Schools with a religious designation may prioritise one religion in their RE curriculum, but all schools must recognise diverse religions and systems of belief in the UK both locally and nationally.

In brief, legislation requires that:

- in maintained community, foundation or voluntary schools without a religious character, RE is taught in accordance with the local Agreed Syllabus,
- academies and free schools must teach RE within the requirements for a locally agreed syllabus, set out in section 375 (3) of the Education Act 1996 and paragraph (5) of Schedule 19 to the School Standards and Framework Act 1998. The requirements are that a syllabus must 'reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are, in the main, Christian while taking account of the teaching and practices of the other principal religions represented in Great Britain',
- for foundation and voluntary controlled schools with a religious character, RE must be taught according to the Agreed Syllabus unless, parents request RE in accordance with the trust deed of the school, and
- in voluntary aided schools RE must be taught in accordance with the trust deed.

RE must be included in the curriculum for all registered pupils, including all pupils in reception classes and sixth form, but excluding:

- pupils in nursery schools or nursery classes in primary schools,
- any person aged nineteen or above for whom further education is being provided at school, and
- any person over compulsory school age who is receiving part-time education.

All schools are now required by Ofsted to publish their school's curriculum, which includes RE, on their school website. SACRE's good practice guide for websites can be accessed in the 'Resources' section. Please note that RE is statutory for all pupils in all schools (subject to parental withdrawal) and that secondary schools, including Academies and Free Schools, should publish how they are meeting the requirement for statutory RE at KS4 if it is not delivered through the GCSE curriculum.

Potential ethical topics suitable for study at KS4:

|--------------------------|--|
| Existence of God | The existence of God is subject of debate. Students will evaluate the evidence proposed by St Thomas Aquinas’s cosmological and teleological argument. These could include the supporting scholarly evidence proposed by Paley (watch) and Tenant (anthropic principle). |

Apologies for Absence: Mrs Bell, Rev Carn, Mrs Feist and Ms Hock (Committee A), Mrs Mullett, Mr Cornford, Mrs Llewelyn, Mrs Macrae and Rev Millwood (Committee C), Mrs Jones, Ms Lord and Mr Simmons (Committee D) and Dr Smith (co-opted member)

Chairman's Welcome

99. The Chairman welcomed Mrs Burgess to the meeting as she would soon be appointed to Committee D. He also welcomed Karen Hammond, who had been engaged to assist SACRE in its work on agreeing a Syllabus for implementation in September 2020.

Declaration of Interests

100. None declared.

Minutes

101. SACRE considered the minutes of the previous meeting and agreed that Mr Simpson should be listed as having apologised for absence.

102. Resolved – That, subject to adding Mr Simpson to the list of apologies for absence, the minutes of the meeting held on 10 June 2019 be agreed as a correct record and that they be signed by the Chairman.

Agreed Syllabus

103. Karen Hammond advised that she had been asked to provide support to SACRE with an aim to establish a new Agreed Syllabus by September 2020. She clarified that she was not providing any other general support to SACRE on behalf of the Education Service. SACRE welcomed Karen's appointment.

104. SACRE expressed concern that the timetable for introducing the new Agreed Syllabus by September 2020 would be challenging, but acknowledged that this was a requirement and so would have to be achieved, and that the previous Working Group had concluded that the current Syllabus would be likely to need minor revision rather than a major change. Members highlighted that the previous Agreed Syllabus had been issued with little training or guidance for RE teachers and hoped that the Education Service would provide sufficient resources to help SACRE to establish training and guidance material for them in time for September 2020.

105. SACRE considered how fundamental a review of the current Syllabus would be required and agreed to establish a Working Group to examine a range of other authorities' Syllabuses to help it compare the current one. In parallel, a network of RE teachers should be established to provide comments on the existing Syllabus and to comment on the emerging draft. It was clarified that the Working Group and network could both meet at County Hall, Chichester.

106. Resolved –

- (1) That SACRE will aim to agree a new RE Syllabus for West Sussex for implementation in September 2020.
- (2) That SACRE welcomes the appointment of Karen Hammond to support it in agreeing the Syllabus but asks the Education Service to provide resources to help SACRE to issue training and guidance for RE teachers ahead of the implementation of the new Syllabus.
- (3) That a Working Group comprising Mrs Bell and Mr Firoozmand (Committee A), Mrs Black (Committee B), Miss Barker (Committee C), Mrs Pendleton and Mr Simmons (Committee D) and Mrs Waker (co-opted member) be established to work with Karen Hammond to review other Syllabuses with a view to preparing a draft Agreed Syllabus for SACRE's consideration.
- (4) That the Working Group will meet on Friday 7 February at 1pm and Tuesday 25 February at 4.30pm.
- (5) That Miss Barker and Mrs Smith be asked to establish a network of RE teachers to seek their views on the current Syllabus and the emerging draft of the new Agreed Syllabus.

Communication

107. SACRE acknowledged that its statutory role included having an overview of standards of RE in West Sussex schools and in promoting high standards. It asked the Chairman to write to the Director of Education and Skills and the Cabinet Member for Education and Skills to highlight SACRE's role and to ask that the Education Service provides sufficient resources to enable SACRE to carry out its work.

108. The Vice-Chairman reminded SACRE members of the Youth Voice Project that had provided an RE conference hosted by the University of Chichester. She asked SACRE members to provide any support possible to continue this successful project, possibly including a future conference in the north of the county.

109. Resolved – That the Chairman write to the Director of Education and Skills and the Cabinet Member for Education and Skills to set the role of SACRE and to ask for confirmation that the Education Service will provide sufficient resources to enable SACRE to carry out its role effectively.

Dates of Future Meetings

110. SACRE noted that its future meeting dates were 26 March 2020, 8 June 2020, 16 November 2020 and 1 March 2021. The next meeting will be held at 10.30am at County Hall, Chichester, but other timings can be considered for future meetings, such as 2.15pm.

The meeting ended at 3.55 p.m.

Chairman, SACRE
West Sussex County Council

Dear Richard

Thank you for your letter regarding the West Sussex Standing Advisory Council on Religious Education and recent discussions that have taken place. I am pleased that the additional consultant support to the Council to support the development of the new Agreed Syllabus has been welcomed. Indeed, the existing syllabus does need significant review in light of developments nationally. Karen is a very experienced professional who I am sure will be able to guide the process through and also to provide examples of best practice. The Clerk to SACRE should be able to provide updates on national changes and developments of which you need to be aware.

In any launch of a new initiative in this way, schools will seek additional support and training. We will look at how to incorporate some training around implementation of the new syllabus into our continuing professional development (CPD) offer for the next year. Our CPD programme is through a traded service and therefore, schools will need to pay for attendance on any course in the same way they have for training and preparation around the new inspection framework for schools and the introduction of the relationships and sex education policy. However, I will speak with Karen about how best she and members of SACRE can build a training package for schools to support the implementation of the new syllabus.

With regard to monitoring religious education in schools, this is not something that we, as a local authority, have the resource or remit to undertake in the way it has been undertaken in the past. Our work in schools is guided through the Schools Causing Concern Protocol set by the Department for Education. Therefore, our School Effectiveness service is focused around this protocol and intervention in schools in inverse proportion to success. We do not and have not had subject specialists working in the service for some time. It would therefore be helpful to understand what SACRE would like to know and we will, in the meantime, research how other local authorities are responding to a similar brief. Summarising Ofsted inspection outcomes is not relevant as most inspections would not make reference to RE other than within the SIAMs Church School inspection reports. Although we do not have an officer who can regularly attend SACRE meetings, if we can agree how best to report back to SACRE, I am sure that we could provide a summary and officer attendance annually to feed into your discussions.

Agenda Item 5

I hope that this helps and, in the meantime, we will explore how other local authorities provide feedback to SACRE.

Yours sincerely
